

NOW The Work Has Begun

This is a great time to be alive. A world in crisis is one filled with energies of change. Nothing can stay the same. So right now we are laying the foundations of our future! We make the choices by every action, every thought and every moment in this world.

For many years we have carried on living the life... for whatever reason allowing the current state of affairs. Filled with disbelief that life should not be this way, as a small child losing the ice creams has it slips to the ground on a hot summer's day... we long for the father with the endless dollars to save the day and restore all that is rightly ours.

We wait for a savior to come into our world to bring all back the order and give us more. We look from one side to the other pointing our finger that it's everyone else's fault. We didn't have what we need. People are doing this to us. Things should have been different. We have to make the bad people stop. We are torn and divided. We don't want to claim our own wrong doing or even being on the side that might have messed up. We stick to the crowd and blend into the mean.

People on all sides are calling for change. Divided against each other the blame game thickens until the air is filled with the stench, which in turn we state that the stench itself proves our point exactly.

People saw wake up. The truth is we are all living in our own dream. Our truth is different from everyone else's. I am not meant to see what another sees. I am meant to see what will bring me to a stronger truth within myself. We are to share our truth with those that want to listen. We hope our light shines so others can find their own. So waking up is not doing what another has you to do, but instead hearing what is in the world and in the silence between the world and knowing where we stand. From there we can move forward with the beat of our soul. Our steps are steadfast and true. Our very being vibrates in order with our own soul and brings forth our creation.

There are many parts to what makes us a human being. We have our physical body, we have our heart, we have our mind, we have our soul, and we have our spirit. Any part of us can be injured or damaged. This builds a blockage within ourselves to be who we really are. That is what defines well being. When all the levels of our being that makes us whole are connective and cohesive and when we function at a level that goes beyond the limitations of our world, we reach the what we call well being. This is a wholeness that does not lack. When the environment presents the stressors, we face the situation and navigate from beyond our soul. This connectedness sees beyond the limited nature of our reality and believes in the ALL.

This is great but we all say... we are awake and we are living the best life and what else can we do, really? No, all those bad things cannot be true, but if they were ... then we would be in really big trouble... but what can we do.

Our world is a reflection of our self. Life is what we bring to it. The energies of the time have brought forth an inspiration for change. The fact hope won. That change and hope for the future dominated our news for over a year. Questions of how and who fill everyone's minds... but the fact remains on all sides of the equation that we all need hope and we all need change. Things cannot go on as they have been without a perilous result for the masses.

So become bitter and cling to what you know? THAT is not the answer.

Do we stand divided and say critically we need to decide with our over developed left brains that one side is right and the other side will bring us down? Do we micro manage under the name of 'critical' thought every step and decision of every person out there in the world? We have been wronged in the past and therefore if 'XY and Z' happens we will be doomed again?

So many are screaming from the mountain top to wake up and look one way or another. So much doom and gloom. So many living in the day to day watching everything go by trying to make their payments and make sure loved ones are alright. WHAT is the right path? Can't we all just agree to disagree? Can't we all come together and share our visions and take it to the next level without the hate, the blame and the fear.

What is guiding each of us every step of the way? Is it our 'beliefs' and the people that say that they line up with our beliefs? Do we make our enemies the ones that are against our ideas and see the world another way? Do we have to fight and become the king of our own hill pushing off anyone that is not on our side or holds us up? We are the insane living in the insane world. We are the ones lost in the 90% that rules our life and the 10% that critically thinks it knows what is going on. We are the ones that believe that our judgment and condemnation will stop all those that are against us and wrong.

We are inflicting our own wounds and making them fester. We have brought the world we hold in our hand. There is no one in this world to blame but each of us. Until we stop looking out to make others line up and realize that we are the ones we have been waiting for. We need to line up. We will remain asleep and lost in the haze off all the smoke.

The energies are rising and the world is change. Yes, it is a great time. It's a critical time. A critical mass is needed for any shift. The direction of the choice is each of ours. To wake up is to stop and look at where we stand and what we are doing. As we start to realize our own actions the change will take place.

Right now people are poising themselves to pounce on the destruction of the new administration. The proof that the evil masterminds behind the puppets are pulling the strings or that the old way is the right way and change wasn't needed at all.

The easy part is to sit on the fence waiting to point fingers. It's easy to say any one of us holds the truth of another and THEY should have done anything differently. Until the moment that each of us come forward and clam our own lives, this world will remain in crisis.

When we face our demons and conquer our fears we can rise up to face the challenges that in truth are opportunities for a greater future. We have taken the first step... let's keep going!

Deborah Sue Pomeroy Reckmeyer lives in Northern Virginia with her husband and children. She works from home on a variety of projects ranging from consulting to supporting authentic living and conscious creation. She is developing a host of websites dedicated to bringing people and needed resources together so that each can embrace their personal power by 'doing their own research' and taking personal responsibility in their own lives.

Deborah has been called a philosopher, a visionary, a teacher, a healer, a prophet, a muse, a mentor, a friend, a wife, a mother, a sister and a daughter. Actually she is a spiritual being of light energy experiencing and expressing herself imperfectly through her limiting bio-suit that does not fit her free spirit within this dimension, like everyone else.

Deborah lives in the broken world with the rest of us. She, as others do, expresses her vision with her wisdoms in today's culture. She has studied and researched science, physics, the language of math, medicine, healing, philosophy, history (ancient origins & myths), psychology, education, teaching, human development, animal training and many other pursuits. Each falls short from the vision that Deborah holds. Plainly life does not work. Many would say that Deborah has failed to fit into the current system of this dimension. Deborah would say that the current system has failed to work (not only for herself), and she is dedicated to her part in forging the new way that will bring forth a world that works for all. Deborah is currently pursuing many esoteric teachings to further her personal evolution and expansion.
